

THE PIG - on the Beach

Studland Bay | Dorset

About

Perched on a cliff above Studland Bay on Dorset's Jurassic Coast, THE PIG-on the Beach is a mellow yellow hotel with sweeping sea views. Expect Kitchen Garden food, roaring log fires, gargoyles and a path that leads to golden sands and salty air. There's something deeply English about this spot, with a hint of 'The Famous Five' (author Enid Blyton loved holidaying here).

There's nothing quite like gathering your people by the sea – to feast, to toast, and to make memories together.
At THE PIG-on the Beach, it's all about those moments: long, lazy lunches that drift into golden sunsets, cocktails sipped with sea views, and laughter echoing late into the night.

Tucked away in the garden with views of Old Harry Rocks, you'll find The Roundhouse, a cosy little thatched house bursting with individual charm! The Roundhouse seats up to 12 guests on a sociable round table made from an 'up-cycled' wine barrel end from a French vineyard.

Directly opposite you will find the Summer House, the perfect break out space or a late afternoon drinks location
